Why Send Out of Town for Your Printing

When you can have first-class work done right here, by first-class union printers.

The business man who sends out of town for his printing injures his own business as well as that of others. While on the other hand the man who patronizes home institutions increases the town's pay roll, and thereby builds up his business.

The printers and book binders in the cities of surrounding states do not come here to spend their money.

TEX RICKARD TO BECOME A FARMER

Tex Rickard, one of the promoters of the Johnson-Jeffries battle at Reno, registered at the St. Francis Saturday night after an extended Eastern trip, says the San Francisco Chronicle. Tex's mind is now off the boxing game. He longs for new fields to conquer and he is fondly dreaming of the time when he can make a trip to South America and cut in on the cattle raising game.

Tex is interested with several big cattle kings in the southern hemisphere and he hopes to be able to take the long trip shortly. He believes that the cattle raising business in South America will net him a fortune and he has been making a study of this industry for some time.

"It looks to me as though the big pugilistic matches are out of the question for the time being at least," said Tex. "I am still just as much an admirer of the game as ever, but I won't get back in it unless I see some great big attraction in sight, and this does not look possible, unless some live ones are developed within the next year or so. But I am still a boxing fan, still a booster for what I consider the best sport in the world, barring none."

"Every time I hear of Wolgast asking $15,000 for his bit to defend his title it makes me feel like taking a punch at him myself. Why, he is lucky to be in the game at all. The newspapers ought to pass him up. It's just such fellows as Wolgast who hurt the game."

Rickard says that the pictures of the Reno battle netted a total profit of $198,000 up to December 15 in spite of the opposition, which they met with in various parts of the United States and other countries. Rickard says that he and Gleason realized handsomely on their venture.

GREEKS PLAY GAMES OF CHANCE TO TEST LUCK

After a week of partial fasting, the members of the Greek colony in the Ely district, began the post-celebration of the Greek Christmas Saturday, when gambling and trials of fortune came into vogue.

From time immemorial it has been the custom of the Greeks to make a thorough test of their luck before the advent of a new year. Winnings means a prosperous new year, while losses at cards indicate twelve months of misfortune.

In coffee houses and other public places in the foreign quarters at McGill and Copper Flat the Greeks squatted about tables and played games and devices peculiar to the people of the Hellenic races. The contests are fair. A Greek who cheats at cards during these luck tests will suffer curses on his family and offspring for three generations, according to an old legend.

When they are endeavoring to determine what the future has in store for them, disputes arise between the Greeks in regard to honesty and these challenges as to personal integrity usually have woeeful consequences.

If one would pass through the different Greek communities during the remainder of the week, it would be impossible for him to fail to observe that something out of the ordinary was transpiring among the Greeks, for the foreigners were toggled out in their gayest attire.

SOLD HER SOUL FOR SICK HUSBAND

WOMAN APPLIES TO CHURCH FOR ASSISTANCE BUT GETS ONLY REBUFF.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 16.

Mrs. Louisa Cahn, for several years a member of one of the Presbyterian churches here, asserted in police court that she had "sold her soul" in order to support her husband, who is in the last stages of tuberculosis, and her two small children.

When she was arraigned before Magistrate Scott, Policeman Ribel of the local "vice squad," said the woman's record was extremely bad. When asked if she could refute this testimony she said:

"Until seven months ago I was a good church member. Then my husband was taken sick and the physicians said he had quick consumption. I applied to my church friends to find me a position and they all said they would do their best. I did every thing, but without result."

"As the only solution to the problem of living I sold myself. I did it because I wanted my husband and children."

Magistrate Scott ordered the police to investigate her story. Detectives were put on the case, and within an hour it had been established that she was telling the truth. The magistrate and the court attaches made up a purse for the woman.

WOMAN SEEKS LONG LOST DAUGHTER HERE

Supposed to be living somewhere in White Pine county, or elsewhere in Nevada, Mrs. Frank Hotchkiss, otherwise known as Miss Minnie Howard, has come into the possession of a small sum of money, and is not aware of that fact.

An aged mother in a little Texas town is anxiously awaiting the return of her child. Friends and relatives have been searching all over the West for the missing heir but their efforts have been unrewarded.

She was last heard from at Cripple Creek, Colorado, five years ago, and suddenly disappeared from that camp without apprising relatives of her destination.

Mrs. Bessie Reed of Odessa, Texas, has received information that her daughter was last seen near Ely, and has asked the residents of that community to aid her in the search.

CAPTAIN JOHN WAS WORKING A GRAFT

That the redskins are fast cultivating the habits of their pale-faced brothers was evidenced on the main streets of Ely Saturday afternoon, when Captain John, a prominent member of the Shoshone tribe, was endeavoring to replenish his empty larder in a peculiar way.

Claiming that he was hungry and unable to work, the Indian chieftain showed that he was in a class by himself as an alms seeker.

He circulated the following typewritten statement quite generally throughout the town:

"To the people of White Pine County: Won't you give me either five or ten cents. I am the big chief of the Shoshones."—Expositor.
